

1644

a single farm in the südvorstadt had the Permission to serve beer and wine. About forty years later, outside the courtyard, the „little castle" in the field was built, a popular excursion restaurant.

1838

The Meisl brothers bought the property and started the construction of a lager brewery at the old Feldschlößchen.

1909

the Feldschlößchen brewery was awarded with the merit medal of the Royal Capital and Residence City of Dresden excellence.

1939

the brewery was damaged 55 percent during the war. But in 1945 the production could resume the production of Feldschlößchen Pilsner began in the Saxon Brewing Union. As a result the brewing company in the Feldschlößchen Brewery Budapester Street was discontinued.

1991

1998

The restaurant „Feldschlößchen Stammhaus" opened. It is now located in the restored nacelle of the former Feldschlößchen brewery on Budapester Street.

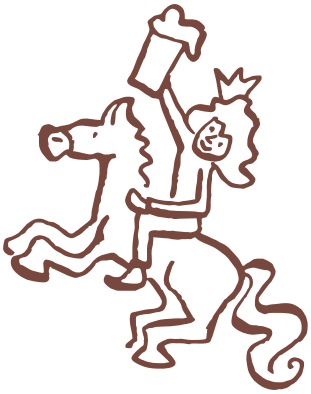

2021

the main building was extensively rebuilt and now shines as a completely new and stylish brewery atmosphere.
